

ACCIDENT ANNIE

I

When society values beauty over intelligence, we take the accomplishment away from the genius.

DONALD TRUMP CONFUSES ME.

---

🕒 03/07/2017   👤 Anna   📁 Uncategorized

---

As a society we cannot continue to exist and function in an singular fashion. We must be creative when unexpected interruptions happen. We must be able to change as ideas and opinions do. We must accommodate and acclimate ourselves to our ever-changing environment, in which we, as Americans have created.

Philosophy is an art form; a deliberately unique process, ever malleable, an impeccably creative machine. The driver must carefully wield this machine, to utilize it appropriately. To Manipulate this process without the understanding of its power can be detrimental to ourselves and those around us.

We use philosophy every day; upon waking, before sleep, and in our dreams. Why? How? What? When? Where? Who? We are naturally curious animals, whether we are curious about ourselves, our loved ones, our community, or nation. To live without question goes against our own species as intelligent beings and understanding of consequence.

Have you ever had a conversation with another person, and was shocked by their responses? By their belief? Their opinion? Even when presented with "iron clad" evidence in opposition, they remain not only comfortable, but concrete in their belief.

It is my opinion that the current presidency (in which by electoral process, we as Americans have elected) is a fine example of this. It appears to me that President Trump is presenting himself in this way and it makes me feel uncomfortable as an American. I truly understand and applaud people who can stand up for themselves, and are steadfast in their own personal beliefs. Does this equal to "Presidential Attributes", American citizens expect when aligned to the current presidency?

Disclaimer: I do not want this post/article to imply that I am not patriotic or that I do not love my country. I believe it is our duty as people, and a right as humans, to question our government. It is us, that elect officials into office. It is our promise to our fellow countrymen that if we are confused, or uneasy about our decisions, we will make ourselves heard. We may not understand each other or even get along, but we all want to be a part of progress and see that followed through.

To estimate failure or success of a leader within the first 100 days of presidency is unfair to that person, this I agree. I believe this is counterproductive as a country, and we should indeed give this person a chance to be a leader. If I were to get my dream job tomorrow, how would I feel if my family were "betting" against my success? For my success?

The question that remains is: Did Donald Trump run for president for us, the American people, or for himself?

---

SHARE THIS:

---

Recent travel ban

Some headlines I've seen as of late: Although such orders are often viewed as carrying more legal weight than other kinds of presidential directives, experts say there is no substantive difference between them. As long as the directives conform to the Constitution and statutes, they carry the force of the law, but...

02/03/2017

In "personal opinion"

Craigslist scams keep cropping up

02/04/2017

In "apartments"

Loving Quora. Brilliant Answer!

Read Mario Chanto's answer to President Trump is now claiming to have one of the highest IQs. What would you estimate it to be? on Quora

02/06/2017

In "Shared posts"

---

📌 #beauty #philosophy #rambling #society #thoughts

---

← PREVIOUS POST

Loving Quora. Brilliant Answer!

---

 Recommend

 Share

Sort by Best ▾

Start the discussion...

Be the first to comment.

---

 Subscribe  Add Disqus to your site  Add Disqus  Add Disqus  Privacy

Toggle sidebar

CONNECT ON SOCIAL MEDIA

